

THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF IMMUNOLOGISTS

Proposal of Candidate for Membership

Membership Qualifications

Candidates proposed for membership in the American Association of Immunologists are not required to have a Doctorate, an equivalent amount of experience or training being entirely acceptable. The principal requirement, while it is not possible to state or to quantitate categorically, is a genuine and active interest in the aims and purposes of the Association: research in immunology and related disciplines. This interest should be evidenced by type and scope of current activities, whether teaching and/or research, and particularly by the bibliography, which should show substantial evidence of original contributions, including two or more first-authored articles, published in reputable, refereed journals. Articles which have been accepted but are not yet in print will not be considered and should not be listed in the bibliography, nor should abstracts and reviews be listed. Specific statements regarding achievements and significant contributions which may not have appeared in the literature should be emphasized by sponsors. In general, it has been the experience that recently graduated Ph.D.s and M.D.s do not have the necessary qualifications and should be encouraged to wait before being proposed for membership.
